Grandma's food cover

Protects food from flies

Everyone knows the problem: Annoying flies specifically target aromatically fragrant foods. To prevent this, Gardigo is bringing back a true classic: Grandma's Food Cover is simply folded open and placed over the plate. Insects cannot get through the fine-meshed fly screen. At the lower edge, the lace border prevents the flies from entering.

The assembly and disassembly of the screen tent is simple. The mechanism works very similar to an umbrella. When folded, the fly cover can be stowed away to save space or taken with you, for example to a picnic.

Enjoy your food hygienically and cleanly without having to kill insects or use of poison.

Ideal for problems with houseflies, blowflies or fruit flies. Think of outdoor buffets or barbecues, cakes, pies, meat or fruit. There are countless uses for grandma's food cover.

And it is a very simple solution:

Open – place – done!
