Pigeon Repellent

A crow dummy to scare pigeons away

Pigeons have adapted perfectly to life in our towns, cities and villages. As a consequence they can become a pest and cause problems. Their droppings are caustic and damage historical buildings. Pigeons keep sitting on ledges, window sills, roofs and balconies and soil them. A large number of pathogenic viruses and bacteria can be carried by them. Bird control spikes cannot be installed in every single place where pigeons are a problem and those can be dangerous for animals and humans alike. But what else can you do about the pesky birds?

The Gardigo Pigeon Repellent is a raven decoy that lets you take advantage of the natural behaviour of pigeons. They perceive crows and ravens as predators and try to keep a distance. Simply place the raven in a spot where pigeons can see it well. A hanger with ground spike is included in the delivery. Simply push it into the base plate or into the back of the raven to install it. The raven looks particularly menacing for pigeons when it is hung from a thin nylon cord and can sway in the wind. We recommend moving the Pigeon Repellent to different locations at regular intervals so that the birds will not perceive it as an immovable object and get used to it.
