Rodent Barrier Steel Wool

An ideal filling for holes – prevents rodents entering

- for sealing holes and cracks
- keep mice and rats away without poison

Mice and rats will get into the house through the smallest of holes and cracks. With their sharp teeth, they will eat their way even through expanding foam. This is why you need our Rodent Barrier Steel Wool. Mice will have a tough time trying to eat through a material that hard.

Using the product is very simple: The steel wool is cut to size with a pair of scissors and tightly inserted into all openings through which the animals may get into the house. It's also possible to use it in combination with a sealant, to prevent rodents from pulling the steel wool out of the holes.
