Vole Repellent Staff

For repelling voles with scents

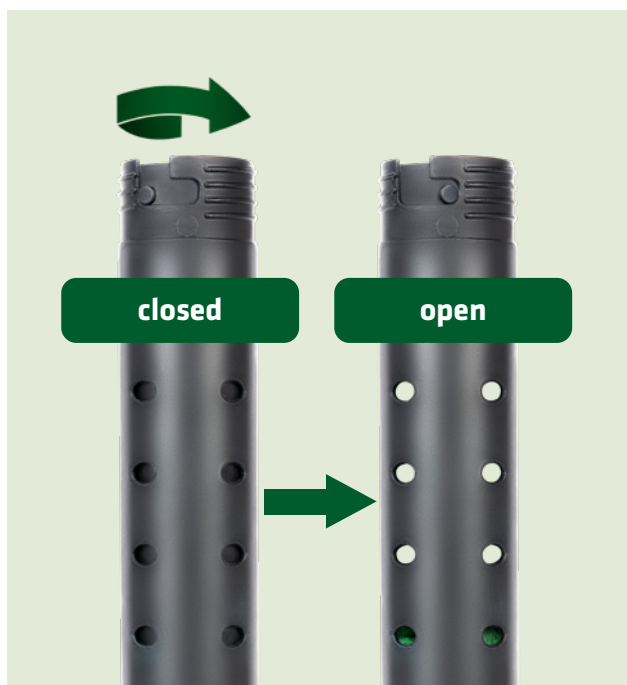

Repelling burrowing animals with scents is a popular way of dealing with the pest. But handling repellents and other odorous substances has been difficult in the past. From now on, this will change – thanks to the Gardigo Vole Repellent Staff.

The tip of the product is equipped with a hole drilling aid. This makes inserting the staff into the soil a lot easier. The staff is filled with a vole repellent or a home recipe, which will emit its smell into the tunnel to repel the voles.

The mechanism allows for inserting the product into the tunnel without earth closing up the holes or getting inside the product.

Repellent not included.
