Hedgehog House DIY

A shelter for hedgehogs

The Gardigo Hedgehog House is an excellent hibernation site for a hedgehog. It helps the animal survive the winter warmly and safely. Not only is it a cosy place for spending the cold season, but it also offers protection from cats and other predators, which is why many animals like to use the Hedgehog House throughout the year. If you are lucky, the hedgehog will make the Hedgehog House its permanent residence. This is good news for your garden, as hedgehogs mainly feed on slugs, worms and insects.

The house is supplied as a DIY kit and very easy to assemble thanks to the clear instructions. The only tool required is a cross-tip screwdriver.

Use:

After assembling the Hedgehog House, it should be placed in a sheltered, cool spot in the garden, for example under a hedge or shrubs or even under a mound of leaves. The house is ideally set up in autumn and filled with straw, leaves and hay. Make sure that the house is protected from direct sunlight.

After a hedgehog has hibernated through the winter, the house should be thoroughly cleaned every year in springtime and set with fresh nesting material. To clean the house only use hot water and no detergents.

Please note: The hedgehog should not be disturbed during hibernation in winter.
