Bird Bar

Keeps the food clean and dry

Stationary birds overwinter in our climes and mainly feed on seeds. Towards the end of winter, natural supplies are becoming increasingly scarce. Thus the birds are often hungry and grateful for a good “restaurant”. Our Bird Bar is not just a simple bird feeder, but a bar with a cosy ambience. A place where the birds like to come and enjoy their food. In return we are able to enjoy their presence. Especially children will take pleasure in watching the birds picking at their food and squabbling over the seeds. Robins, finches, goldfinches sparrows and other domestic birds can be attracted by using the bar. Just fill the feeder with a mixture of selected seeds and soon you will be able to watch your feathered friends. The Bird Bar should be hung up before the first snowfall or frost. This is the time when birds look out for attractive feeding places and once they have successfully found food, you can be sure that they will stick to the place and return. The Bird Bar should be hung up at a location as sheltered as possible, so that the food and the animals perching on the bar are not exposed to the harsh weather conditions of winter.

Use:

Fill the house with bird seed from the back of the house. Here you will find an opening covered with a circular piece of wood. Open the cover and fill the house.

Please note: Only feed birds when they have no other way of getting food. With the first signs of spring you should stop feeding.
